

Shira Eller is the Art & Design Librarian at the George Washington University (GW). She is the curator of GW Libraries' book arts collection and works closely with students and faculty in GW's Corcoran School of the Arts and Design. Shira formerly worked as a librarian at the Corcoran College of Art + Design and is the co-coordinator for the Book Arts Special Interest Group of the Art Libraries Society of North America. Shira holds a BA in English from GW, an MS in Library and Information Science from Drexel University, and an MA in Art History from George Mason University.